*Dear MaineStreamers,
When the holidays approach, we often spend more time with family members. But not all seniors have children, grandchildren, nieces or nephews with which to spend time. Or maybe their family members live far away, or have other obligations that prevent them from spending time with older family members. What does this mean?*

It means we seniors need to look out for each other! We can ensure that we - and other seniors - are not suffering from loneliness or isolation by inviting each other out to do things together. And joining Mainstreamers' activities together is an excellent way for us to get out of the house and stay in touch with others. Sometimes we are the first to notice another senior's lack of family contact and increasing isolation. We can step in to help fill that void and alleviate that loneliness. Perhaps one of your New Year's resolutions might be to invite an acquaintance to join you at an event, to encourage a neighbor to join Mainstreamers, or to treat a friend to a birthday gift of being your guest on a Mainstreamer trip. We should not always expect younger generations to look after us. They are often overwhelmed with other obligations. We need to help look out for each other. And the holidays are a great time to do that. Here's wishing you all a happy and healthy holiday in the coming months!

*Karen J. Dimond
Maine Township Supervisor*

Lunch: 12:00 noon to 1:30 p.m.

Presentation: 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Cost: $34.00 per person

Few American houses enjoy as lavish a holiday season as the White House. In this beautifully illustrated talk, historian Leslie Goddard, Ph.D. discusses the traditions that bring Christmas alive inside America's most famous address. Learn the history of the gingerbread house tradition, the National Christmas Tree, and the thousands of ornaments created by artists around the country over the years. Did you know the White House didn't have a Christmas tree until 1889? Or that it takes up to 200 people to put up the decorations each year? Take an insider's view of one of the most historic homes in the world during the most magical time of the year. Lunch individually plated: tossed green salad, chicken marsala, garlic mashed potatoes, vegetables. Family style on each table: Italian sausage and peppers, rigatoni with mushrooms. Vanilla ice cream with chocolate drizzle. Coffee, tea and soft drinks included.
