Wendy Altschuler
Travel & Lifestyle Writer
Friday, May 15th
2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Explorers of the Heroic Age risked life and limb to reach the White Continent, demonstrating the resiliency and endurance of the human spirit. From Roald Amundsen, who reached the South Pole in 1911, to Robert Falcon Scott, who sorrowfully reached the pole just one month later only to learn he wasn't the first, to Ernest Shackleton who led his men to safety nearly two years after their ship was crushed in the ice, Antarctica is full of dramatic tales. Follow Wendy Altschuler, a travel and adventure writer, on her journey, several months ago, visiting the Seventh Continent, where she traveled from Punta Arenas, Chile, to Union Glacier and the South Pole in Antarctica. She'll share photos and stories of the coldest, driest, and windiest continent on Earth where there's 24-hours of sunlight six months of the year, and 24-hours of darkness the remaining months. What could possibly go wrong?
